Contis was then asked about Santos’ earlier social media activity of unfollowing the actor and removing their photos together on her Instagram page. Contis, in response, stressed that he also unfollowed certain individuals on Instagram but that it doesn’t mean he parted ways with them.

The actor also dodged the question whether he and Santos are still friends. “No comment,” he reiterated with a teasing smile.

“As I always say, masyado na kayong may alam sa buhay ko so I’d like to keep my personal life personal,” Contis underscored.

Contis confirmed his relationship with Santos in January 2023, after over a year of speculations from the public. Months after the confirmation, he declared that he had plans of marrying Santos sometime in the future.

The pair was rumored to have broken up as well last November after Contis was linked to his former fellow noontime show host Arra San Agustin.

The actor dismissed the split speculations at the time, and clarified that the videos of him and San Agustin circulating on social media were “maliciously edited.”
